Special Report by Carisa Peterson

BRECKENRIDGE, CO — Ski towns often have a stark combination of local businesses, made up of either companies that have been around forever or the ones that seem to come and go with the seasons.

Ski Village Resorts in the heart of downtown Breckenridge, Colo., is the former. It has become a reliable anchor during its several decades of providing a range of lodging choices to guests throughout the popular destination.

Ski Village specializes in renting ski in/ski out private homes, condominiums and townhomes which are each privately owned. Attention has been paid to the smallest detail within each unit because each one is someone's home to begin with. This expresses itself in quality furnishings and uniquely beautiful touches around each corner and designed within each nook, providing the destination traveler with a personal experience throughout their stay.

The personal experience begins the moment you arrive to check in. While many vacation rentals are going the way of "self-serve," Ski Village Resorts believes that providing actual service by real people to its guests goes hand-in-hand with ensuring a smooth and enjoyable experience. While some lodging companies or renting individuals go only as far as email, apps, and video to help guests navigate their vacation experience, there is value in knowing that when you book with Ski Village, there is always a real person available who is familiar with your chosen accommodations. There is a seasoned local staff. There is always a person with whom you can speak, not a collection of codes and passwords you have to fish off of your phone to unlock the next step in the arrivals process.

Complimenting Ski Village Resorts' personal experience, its office on Main Street has its own free parking lot for arriving and departing guests, bathrooms, and plenty of space for your family to stretch upon arrival to Breckenridge. Checking in and out of your vacation accommodations does not get any more convenient in the popular destination town of Breckenridge.

Liz Clawson is just one of the many "long-timers" on staff at Ski Village Resorts. She splits her time between serving guests at Ski Village and owning and operating her own local Breckenridge pet services business. As such an involved part of the Breckenridge community, Liz sees the value of personal service from many different perspectives, and she enjoys witnessing the smile of a guest who has enjoyed his or her stay upon check-out.

Liz notes, "being a part of such a long-established, yet still intimate company at Ski Village, I feel empowered to help our guests more than I think I would if I were working for more of a large, corporate organization. I can make reason-based decisions rooted in my experience. I like that having been with Ski Village as long as I have, I have heard all of the questions before, and I know what the answers are. I do not have to call up the chain-of-command, or consult staff in other departments to resolve simple issues. Our small staff has worked together to such an extent that we often assist guests more quickly, across our individual disciplines, specialties or departments."

The next time you are booking your Breckenridge vacation accommodations, stay with Ski Village Resorts and let them worry about the details.

For personal service, and a smooth Breckenridge experience from booking all the way through, until you have to return home, think Ski Village Resorts for your next winter ski or summer vacation. Call them at 1-888-972-8200. You will get a real person! Or please visit: www.skivillageresorts.com
