- Jackson's Golden Ticket returns for huge savings in January, plus ski free at Christmas.
- Steamboat skiing is legendary and the town offers many great lodging choices.
- Schweitzer Mountain in Northern Idaho has easy access from Spokane and an uncrowded 2,900 acres.
- Mt. Bachelor in Bend, Oregon is a volcano and you can ski all 360-degrees around it. It is a "bucket list" resort.

WEST TRENTON, NJ -- (Special from SKIER NEWS) If you ever thought about skiing other resorts in the West, this could be your year to make the trip. Finding a flight is easy. The resorts have reservations departments to assist you and most offer good discounts from SFO, OAK or SMF.

Please note that most Western ski resorts subsidize the flights into their towns, especially Steamboat and Jackson. Very simply put, if a seat is empty they pay the airline anyway. So, they would rather have you in the seat and on your way, with a good deal.

Lodging, except for holidays, is reasonably priced, so just look for the best deal on lift tickets, etc., and you will be all set. Most resorts offer great lift, lodging and flight packages, just look for them online.

Jackson Hole is re-celebrating their 50th Anniversary this winter; check out Jackson's Golden Ticket deal. If you have season pass from any ski resort, bring it to Jackson with your ID and receive 40 percent off the cost of a lift ticket any day from Jan. 9 to Jan. 31, 2017. You can fly directly to Jackson (JAC) and ski as many days in this time frame as you like for 40 percent off with this deal. For more info, log on to www.jacksonhole.com

Steamboat is a great town with a great mountain and legendary Champagne Powder® that, for many skiers, they groom to perfection. And you will find plenty of groomers to accompany their powder runs. Fly into Steamboat (HDN) with nonstop flights from many airports.

You cannot go wrong here, log on to www.steamboat.com for more.

Lodging in Steamboat ranges from a Hampton Inn to homes and condos to rent. Steamboat is a real Western town with shops, bars and restaurants for every taste.

Schweitzer is a fun, wide open resort with 2,900 acres for all to enjoy. There are virtually no lift lines and plenty of powder or groomed trails to keep you smiling throughout your trip. Fly in to Spokane's airport (GEG) and you are an easy 90-minute ride to the resort. Lodging is plentiful on the mountain or in the town of Sandpoint, Idaho. Many people think of this region and ski area as "remote" and that is good. It keeps the crowds and the prices down. Visit them at www.schweitzer.com

Mt. Bachelor is a dormant volcano and you can ski completely around the upper cone of the mountain. It's scenery rivals that of Tahoe. Stay in Bend and pick one of 21 breweries for dinner.

Wherever you go, have fun, travel safely and ski in Tahoe or other resorts in the West as much as you can.
